YD NaKagawaRan

This is a story from long, long ago.
Now, demons and humans used to coexist peacefully
But one day, the demons suddenly began invading human land
The demons were once human villages and wrecked havoc Grrrah
The reason was unknown. However the demons that hit these villages were a few villages never went to but almost after However from all villages the spirit came together and changed the demons and of those villages for good
After words

Humans would run in terror whenever they saw this demon whose fur stood like

...as were flowers, sayings of the silver demon for years thereafter.

...until the rain had left all the elements of the world seemingly disappeared forever.

We still don't know the reason for the sudden disappearance. However, after their leader vanished, the demons stopped attacking human villages.
